Criminal complaint regarding breach of international law
- preparation of war of aggression -

Dear committee,

we accuse the German secretary of foreign affairs, Annalena Baerbock of a "crime of aggression".

On January the 24th 2023 she clearly stated: "We are fighting a war against Russia."

This statement is an act of aggression and a clear violation of the code of crimes against international law section 13 „crime of aggression“. Since Russia did not show any type of aggression against Germany, this statement can be considered as preparing an aggressive war!

A case of defense requires a confirmation of 2/3 of the votes from the German parliament – Bundestag – according to the German constitution, article 115a. This kind of vote has not yet taken place.

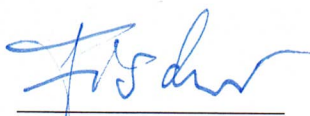

The Ukraine is not a member of the NATO. Therefore supporting the Ukraine is not a case for the alliance.

Of course, there is no justification for any kind of aggression related to the conflict between Russia and the Ukraine. But the ongoing war crimes among two independent states are no excuse to act in a comparable manner.

"Incautious" statements like the one mentioned above qualify to block out every opportunity for a diplomatic solution or worse to provoke a war with severe consequences not just for Germany, but for all European countries.

Best Regards
